Hopple Dies Of Brain Hemorrhage

READING construction worker Michael Sakal, 47, will be given a hearing tomorrow night on the charge of manslaughter brought against him in the death of James S. Hopple, 48, of Stroudsburg.

Hopple died Friday night after a fight between himself and Sakal outside Five Point Tavern at Fifth and Main Sts., Stroudsburg.

Monroe County Coroner Daniel G. Warner said last night that an autopsy showed Hopple's death was due to "hemorrhage of the brain resulting from a fractured skull."

Warner said the autopsy, conducted by Dr. M. J. Leitner, chief pathologist at General Hospital of Monroe County, also showed that Hopple had sustained a broken jaw.

Dr. Leitner said the dead man had also suffered ed a cracked bone in elbow, apparently the result of falling on the arm.

The coroner also officially fixed the time of death at "about 10:30 p.m." He based this on a process of elimination since the ambulance driver from General Hospital was called out at 10:40 p.m. and arrived back at the hospital at 11:03.

Hopple was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital by an attending physician. He was alive, however, when ambulance attendants loaded him into the vehicle, Warner said.

The hearing on the manslaughter charge against Sakal had been scheduled for tonight before Justice of the Peace John Foelker.

At the request of Sakal's defense attorney, Maxwell Cohen, Stroudsburg, it was postponed until tomorrow night, Foelker said. Cohen said last night that he was going to be "tied up" today and tonight with another case out of town and could not be present.

A formal manslaughter charge was brought against Sakal Saturday by Stroudsburg borough assistant police chief Jack Tretheway. He was returned to Monroe County Jail.

Officials at the jail said Sakal's wife visited him briefly on Saturday. Hopple lived with his mother, Mrs. Bessie Burt Hopple, at 403 Main St., Stroudsburg. His father, George Hopple, died some years ago.

Unemployed during recent months, Hopple had once worked for the International Boiler Works in East Stroudsburg and at Drake's Grocery in Stroudsburg more recently.

ly. He was a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School and attended East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

During his education career, Hopple established a reputation as an outstanding athlete in the community. He was six foot, two inches tall and weighed about 200 pounds.

Sakal lives at 1100 Lancaster Ave., Reading. He is employed by Margold Construction Co. of Yonkers, N.Y. The firm is building a Civil Aeronautics Administration radar installation on Bangor Mountain.

Sakal told police he became involved in an argument with Hopple in the Five Point Tavern Friday night between 10 and 10:30 p.m. Until that time Sakal said he had been talking about "tricks" and had just shown a match trick to Hopple.

25 U.S. Servicemen Kidnaped

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—The kidnapping of another American serviceman was disclosed yesterday as a U. S. consul headed for rebel mountain hideouts to seek release of 24 U. S. sailors and Marines who vanished over the weekend.

The U. S. embassy disclosed yesterday that an enlisted man was kidnapped by rebels Saturday night right outside the U. S. Naval Base at Guantanamo in southeastern Cuba.

The 24 others mostly Marines, disappeared after leaving the base in a bus for a weekend outing. They also were believed kidnapped by Fidel Castro's rebels. The embassy said there was evidence they were forced from their bus into rebel trucks and driven into mountains near the base.

Consul Park Wollam also will inquire into the case of 10 U. S. and two Canadian engineers seized earlier by the rebels. U. S. officials have been advising the rebels plan to free the engineers shortly.

Two Guides
Wollam and two Cuban guides left Moa, on the northeastern side of the island, yesterday morning. They headed into dense mountains looking for a rebel column commanded by Raul Castro, brother of the rebel leader.

The servicemen left Guantanamo naval base in southeast Cuba Friday night for an overnight excursion around the Cuban countryside. They were due back at 7 p.m. last night.

Their bus was found empty Saturday afternoon about 30 miles east of the naval base. Search parties found no trace of them in the mountains nearby.

Twenty-four sailors and Marines were aboard the bus, the Navy said in Washington. Two Cubans, presumably the driver and his assistant, also were reported missing.

Richard Colligan, vice president of Moa Bay Mining Co., said in Havana he did not believe the engineers, employed by his firm, would be released until the servicemen are.

75 Accidents, Four Deaths, 38 Injuries Predicted For Area During Holiday Span

THE NATIONAL Safety Council has predicted that 410 people will meet death by automobile accidents over the 78-hour period from 6 p.m. Thursday, until midnight on Sunday, July 6.

This compares with a figure of 330 for the same period on any non-holiday week-end at this time of year. In the local area serviced by the Lehigh Valley Safety Council the prediction is that there will be 75 accidents with 38 injuries and four deaths.

This includes Bucks, Carbon, Lehigh, Monroe, and Northampton counties in Pennsylvania and Warren County in New Jersey.

The local council hopes that it is wrong by far. It admonishes everyone to STAY OUT OF THE STATISTICS.

Too High
Over the Memorial Week-end this area did well, having a much better record than the rest of the nation.

The figures were still too high for peace of mind: 70 accidents with 36 injuries and 4 deaths. The prediction had been for 98 accidents with 51 injuries and five deaths.

The council urges everyone to practice what is preached by safety advisors, using the three C's of traffic safety: Care, Caution, Courtesy.

General speculation is that they will.

Walter's Rival Requests List Of Automobile Donors

WASHINGTON—Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) has been asked to make public the list of donors of a $6,000 automobile he received at a testimonial dinner last March.

Luther H. Ackerman, Walter's Republican opponent for the 15th Congressional District seat wrote:

"Until such list is made public, a cloud of suspicion naturally hangs over you for having received a very expensive gift for, perhaps, favors rendered."

Mrs. Helen D. Sutton of Easton, Walter's secretary, said Walter evidently has not received Ackerman's letter since it was mailed to the congressman's Easton office. He is currently in Washington.

Walter received the sedan at a testimonial dinner in Hotel Easton March 3, shortly after he celebrated his 25th year as a legislator.

Lebanon's Rebels Attack Hospital

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Heavy fighting swirled around Tripoli yesterday as rebel forces tried to seize or destroy the U. S. Presbyterian Hospital.

Eight persons were killed and six wounded in fights that began Saturday night with a rebel warning for government guards to clear out of the hospital. It was feared the battle might mushroom into a rebel drive to take all the northern port city.

Americans moved out of the hospital two weeks ago, but the U. S. Embassy expressed grave concern for the Lebanese staff still on duty.

It was not known whether there were any patients in the hospital. The building is isolated in rebel territory overlooking the city.

The rebels warned last Tuesday they would destroy the hospital if the government guards did not withdraw.

The warning was sent to the U. S. Embassy in Beirut. The embassy asked Lebanese military authorities to increase its protection. Fifteen guards were sent there.

Saturday night the rebels gave the guards five minutes to move out. When the guards ignored the order, the rebels blew up the guard station, killing six gendarmes.

A night-long battle ensued. Security forces using artillery destroyed 10 houses in the port area of the city. Artillery shells were still bursting in the city after day-light.

This was the fourth straight day of heavy fighting in Tripoli where the revolt against Lebanon's pro-Western government began 51 days ago.

Two U.S. Jets Set Mark

Atlantic Spanned In 5½ Hours

NEW YORK (AP) — Two U. S. Air Force jet tanker planes flew from London to New York yesterday in the record time of less than six hours. The same craft had set marks of less than 5½ hours for the New York-London flight only two days ago.

The British held previous records for the flights. They were established Aug. 23, 1955, by Capt. J. W. Hackett, flying a Royal Air Force Canberra jet bomber. Hackett set a mark of 7 hours 29 minutes on a London to New York flight and 6 hours 16 minutes from New York to London.

The first of the two Air Force planes—the Alpha—flashed over Idlewild Airport at 1:20 p.m. Its elapsed time for the 3,460-mile flight was 5 hours, 51 minutes and 24.8 seconds.

The plane landed minutes later at nearby Floyd Bennett Field.

The Alpha's sister ship, the Bravo, streaked over Idlewild at 1:34 p.m. Its elapsed time for the trip was 5 hours, 53 minutes and 21 seconds.

The Bravo zipped on home to Westover Air Force Base in Massachusetts. The airmen felt good over their accomplishment but were saddened by thoughts of the tragedy which overtook the mission upon takeoff from Westover.

Four of the planes—KC135s—had been scheduled to make the round-trip flight to England. The Alpha and the Bravo got away safely but the third plane crashed with the loss of 15 lives. Six newsmen were among them. The flight of the fourth craft was then canceled.

Memorial services for the victims were being held at Westover yesterday while the Alpha and the Bravo were in mid-ocean on the return hop.

Col. Harry Burrell of Omaha, Neb., 40-year-old commander of the flight, told newsmen the Alpha averaged 587.72 m.p.h. for the flight from London to New York. Its top speed during the trip was 630 m.p.h. just after leaving London at 7:29 a.m. It bettered by 17 minutes its estimated time of arrival here. The Bravo departed 12 minutes later.

Crewmen aboard the Alpha in addition to Burrell were Maj. Burl Davenport, pilot, San Antonio, Tex.; 1st Lt. James J. Jones, copilot, Wichita, Kan.; 1st Lt. Eugene A. Miller, navigator, Marion, Ohio; Capt. William Myers, third pilot, Indianapolis; S. Sgt. William Minchew, boom operator, Bastrop, La.; and S. Sgt. Allen Evans, crew chief, Brownell, Pa.

The Alpha's mark for the New York-London flight was 5 hours, 27 minutes and 42.8 seconds. The Bravo's time for the crossing was 5 hours, 29 minutes and 37.4 seconds.

The planes cost three million dollars apiece, weigh 150 tons and carry a 25-ton payload. They are military versions of the Bng 707 airliner scheduled for commercial service next year. They have swept wings and four jet engines.

The purpose of the flights was to demonstrate that the Air Force could send high performance jet tanker aircraft anywhere in the world.

Nixon Denies President's Rumor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Nixon says suggestions President Eisenhower may retire before the end of his term in 1961 are nothing but "hog-wash."

Nixon, who appeared yesterday on a filmed television program with Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), said: "I have never heard anything so ridiculous."

"There has never been any discussion of that by the President or those in his official

Gruenther Set As Top Name For Adams' Job

By Robert S. Allen
Daily Record Columnist

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower has talked to General Alfred Gruenther about replacing Sherman Adams.

No decision was reached on that. Gruenther, now head of the American Red Cross, indicated reluctance to take Adams' heavy White House job. Gruenther is not in robust health; also he has had little experience in the political arena.

But the former NATO commander is definitely the President's first choice as successor to Adams.

Sherman Adams

Adams' departure as the assistant to the President is certain. Only uncertainty is when. Virtually all Republican leaders with whom the President has conferred on this have advised, "The sooner the better." Adams, however, is strongly resisting ouster from his powerful position.

That Gruenther is the President's first choice to replace Adams is no surprise to intimates of the President. He and Gruenther have been closely associated since 1941, when both were unknown and relatively junior officers on the staff of General Walter Krueger, then commander of the later world-famed Third U. S. Army.

As a newly-made Brigadier General, the President was Krueger's Chief of Staff. Gruenther, as a spanning new Colonel, was Assistant Chief of Staff.

Contrary to widely-published newspaper reports, Interior Secretary Fred Seaton is the President's third choice as Adams' successor. The President highly regards Seaton, and the latter had considerable White House experience before being made Interior chief.

But the President is anxious to keep Seaton in this sensitive cabinet post, because of his outstanding work there.

Second on the President's list to take Adams' place is Major General Wilton "Silk" Persons. Persons also has had long service with the President. As the top White House liaison officer with Congress, Persons has had extensive experience dealing with both Republican and Democratic lawmakers. He performed this functional duty during the Roosevelt and Truman regimes.

However, like Gruenther, Persons' health is not the best, and there is a question of his ability to carry the load of responsibilities that goes with Adams' job.

Also under consideration by the President is Henry Cabot Lodge, top U. S. delegate to the United Nations and former senator from Massachusetts. For some time, Lodge has privately indicated desire to move to other field.

At a discussion with a group of Republican senators, Vice President Nixon advised silence regarding the stormy Adams controversy. Said Nixon, "Our best strategy is to say nothing. If we remain quiet, this affair is bound to subside in a little while, and may even be largely forgotten in a few months."

Postal Employee Held For Theft

NEW YORK (AP)—A 28-year-old former postal employee was held in $10,000 bail yesterday on a charge of stealing jewelry valued at $75,000 from the apartment of heiress Gloria Vanderbilt Lumet.

A hearing was set for today for Humberto Travali, who was picked up Saturday with Sidney Reitzfeld, 47-year-old bartender.

U.S. Finds Change In Red Attitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — Encouraged by a change in Russia's attitude, U. S. officials said yesterday the nuclear test talks due to open at Geneva tomorrow might possibly lead to a break in the disarmament deadlock.

The negotiations are to be carried on by scientists of the United States and three Western Allies with scientists of Russia and three Soviet-bloc countries. They should at least show whether the Soviet government means business when it talks about backing up a ban on nuclear tests with an international inspection system.

If Russia shows itself ready to accept a workable inspection system, even on the limited scale necessary to police a prohibition on testing, other steps toward disarmament might be more easily worked out. The issue of inspection has been at the heart of the disarmament deadlock since the United States first proposed a program to control atomic weapons more than 10 years ago.

U. S. officials said yesterday it seems all but certain now that Russia and the other Communist governments will be fully represented when the Geneva conference Western scientists gather on their side of the table tomorrow.

Cloaked Plans
Moscow had cloaked its own plans in confusion and uncertainty last Wednesday by announcing it would not send scientists to Geneva unless the United States in effect committed itself now to a suspension of all nuclear weapons testing.

Such a commitment—as the Soviet government presumably knows — is impossible. President Eisenhower has made no final decision on U. S. policy and has been awaiting action by Congress on legislation which would permit the United States to share nuclear weapons secrets with Britain.

Without such sharing, Britain is unwilling to hamper its own weapons program by halting tests.

Crew Of Nine Safe As Craft Burns

MOSCOW (AP) — U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn E. Thompson Jr. awaited word from Washington yesterday to press for release of nine American airmen forced down inside Soviet Armenia by two Russian jets.

Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko told Thompson Saturday the nine were unharmed and are being well cared for. Gromyko charged the United States had made a crude violation of Soviet air space. He said the plane burned on landing.

In Washington, the Defense Department said there is no truth in the Soviet charge that the plane—a DC6A—deliberately violated Russian air space. It said the State Department was instructing Thompson to seek the prompt release of the six officers and three airmen aboard.

The statement indicated the plane may have gotten lost in overcast weather while on a flight to Iran with a cargo consigned to the U. S. military and diplomatic missions in Iran and Pakistan. The flight originated in Weisbaden, Germany, stopped on Cyprus and was last reported over Ankara, Turkey, at 1:23 p.m. (6:23 a.m. EST) Friday, the statement said.

U.S. Side

Thompson is expected to present the U. S. side of the incident and ask for the return of the crewmen and whatever is left of the plane.

The plane was intercepted by Soviet radar as it flew 105 miles inside Armenia Friday, the Soviet announcement said. It added that the plane ignored the Russian pilots' signals to follow them to the nearest airfield and flew another 50 miles before it was forced to land.

The Russians said the plane landed and burst into flames as the nine Americans hopped out. The announcement did not specify exactly where the plane landed.

Presumably, the plane was set afire purposely by the Americans to destroy classified equipment carried by most military aircraft.

Weissport Driver Faces Two Charges

KUNKLETON — A 19-year-old Weissport driver will face two charges as the result of separate accidents involving his car and two other vehicles Saturday night on Legislative Route 560, three miles west of here.

State Police of the Lehighon barracks identified him as Robert C. Ahner, 402 White St. They said his 1948 convertible sideswiped a car driven by Viola I. Bobst, 40, Gilbert, and failed to stop at the scene of the accident.

Troopers said Ahner's car continued down the road for about a mile, struck a car owned by Richard Smale, 17, of 151 White St., Bowmanstown, and then crashed into a tree.

Two Passengers
Ahner and his two passengers were injured. The driver sustained a possible fracture of the left shoulder and cuts and bruise burns of the face.

His passengers, Gerald Whitman, 17, of 518 Bridge St., Weissport, and Michael Milkovich, 17, White St., Weissport, sustained cuts and bruise burns.

Troopers said Ahner will be charged with leaving the scene of an accident and reckless driving.

Caldwell Case Nearer Solving

WIND GAP — Northampton County officials said yesterday they feel they are closer to solving the Mary "Mae" Caldwell murder mystery.

Investigators are working on "one definite theory" in the case, District Attorney Edward G. Ruyak said. He added that the detector tests conducted last week might "help to narrow the issues, facts and theories in the case."

Test Results
Test results will not be known until this week. Ruyak said no one person can be called a prime suspect in the June 2 slaying of the Bushkill Township woman.

Tests under the supervision of State Police from Harrisburg will be continued. Miss Caldwell's partial torso was found in the ruins of her burned out home near here.

Funeral services for the woman will be held Thursday afternoon in Clearfield Church between here and Moorestown.

PUBLIC HEALTH AND SAFETY

(as influenced by plumbing and heating in the home)

"Ventilation and Health"

Fresh air has five qualities: moderate temperature, gentle motion, moderate humidity, variability, and freedom from objectionable dust and odors. To follow through on the above statement, temperature habits (as in the case of food habits) may be acquired, and an indoor temperature of 68 degrees F. is the maximum for health. Furthermore, a cool temperature usually will insure a proper humidity. It is a well known fact that variability in temperature, as between 66 and 68 degrees F., is stimulating to the body. Although drafts frequently are harmful, air may be in gentle motion without causing a draft, and air movement favors health and efficiency.

With the approach of the warm season of the year, the thoughts of the home-owner or tenant naturally turn toward methods of remedying the unbearable heat and humidity which can be expected during the hot summer months. Unfortunately, magazines and newspapers are jammed with suggestions and advertisements covering the subject. Many of the suggestions are good—if the equipment named is installed and used as directed by the manufacturer. It is even possible to improve living conditions with no purchase of equipment, if the suggestions found in the first paragraph of this article are applied to the conditions found in the home.

When it comes to the point of buying equipment to adjust temperature, humidity, and cleanliness of air in the home, full advantage of all free information on the subject should be taken—not necessarily advertising literature, but information made available by someone with no equipment to sell, such as your Electric Company, your health agencies, or your doctor. The basic requirements outlined above must be met, or the equipment will not give you the comfort, health, and satisfaction which you rightfully expected.

Support For Special Season

HARRISBURG — Proposals for an antlerless deer hunting season this fall had the strong support yesterday of Pennsylvania foresters.

At a meeting with the State Game Commission and sportsmen's organizations Saturday, the foresters urged the special season as a means of cutting the state's deer herd.

"As well as being a threat to the future existence of forest industries, deer browsing is causing a substantial dollar loss to farmers, forest industries and other timberland owners," declared George F. Patterson, Wellsboro, chairman of the Pennsylvania Forest Industries Committee.

The meeting was called by the commission to hear recommendations on various hunting seasons.

Acute Indigestion Can Be Dangerous

An Over-Acid Stomach May Lead To Lots of Trouble

You can be so distressed with gas and fullness and bloating that you think your heart will stop beating.

Your stomach may be so indigestion that your breathing is short and gaspy—you think perhaps you are suffocating—you are dizzy and pray for quick relief—What's to be done?

Just one teaspoonful of NEUTRACID in a little hot water and in 10 minutes the gas disappears, the pressing on the heart ceases and you can breathe deep and normally.

Free Chest X-Ray Program For Food Handlers Begins Today

Mobile Unit To Be In Boroughs

FREE chest x-ray program for all food handlers in Monroe County begins today. The x-rays are required by law.

The mobile x-ray unit will be stationed at Stroudsburg Municipal Building this morning from 8 to 11:30.

This afternoon between 1:30 and 4:30 p.m., the unit will be at the Fire House in East Stroudsburg.

All food handlers in both boroughs are required to have the chest x-rays as a health protection measure, for the public.

The x-ray unit comes to the County through the State Department of Health's Bureau of Tuberculosis Control.

X-ray programs in this community are organized with the cooperation of the Monroe County Medical Society by the Monroe County Tuberculosis Health Society.

For the remainder of this week, the x-ray unit will be at these locations: Tuesday — Shawnee Inn from 10 to 11 a.m.; Pocono Crest at Pocono Pines from 2:00 to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday — Skytop Lodge from 10 to 11:30 a.m.; Tannersville Fire House from 2 to 4 p.m. and Middle Smithfield School at Echo Lake from 7 to 9 p.m. Thursday — Kelp's Laundry, Stroudsburg from 8 to 9 a.m.; Brodheadville Fire House from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Next week's schedule includes stops at Tamiment, Unity House, Buck Hill Falls, Pocono Manor, and Mount Pocono.

Sakal said that Hopple hit him on the shoulder, causing him to reel backward. The construction worker said he then grabbed a bar stool in front of him, regained his balance and "automatically" raised the stool over his head to ward off Hopple.

At that point, according to Sakal and a friend, Raldo Wade, his foreman on the construction job, Wade stepped between the two men and moved Sakal toward the door, Threthway said. Hopple shoved Wade aside, pulled open the screen door which Sakal said he was trying to hold, police said.

Outside, according to Sakal's story to police, Hopple spun him (Sakal) around and hit him with his fist. Sakal broke loose and ran around the corner to the Fifth St. side of the tavern.

The construction worker — who stands five feet, 11 inches and weighs about 150 pounds — told police Hopple caught up with him within seconds, and hit him a third time.

Sakal told police that he remembered making a fist and aiming at Hopple's face, then watching Hopple fall to the street. Threthway said Sakal told him he was "almost crazy with fear and that he ran away as fast as he could."

When police arrived on the scene, Hopple was still alive. After he was loaded into the ambulance, they went to the American House where Sakal had a room. He was at the hotel.

They told him to stay there. Later, when they found Hopple was dead on arrival at the hospital, they returned to pick Sakal up, found that he had left the hotel to "drive around" for a while.

Sakal gave himself up at the borough police station a quarter of an hour later. Wade and Sakal's construction superintendent were with him at the station.

Six hours after funeral services are held for Hopple tomorrow, Sakal will be given an official hearing on the charge leading

Louis Stout, Pocono Pines, Expires At Sister's Home

LOUIS STOUT, Pocono Pines, formerly of Gouldsboro, died Saturday at 3 p.m. at the home of his sister Mrs. Margaret Foley, Pocono Pines. He attended the Methodist Church.

He was the son of Henry and Susan Van Horn Stout of Thornhurst, and is survived by two sons, Clarence of Gouldsboro, and Chester of Connecticut, and two daughters, Mrs. Fred Snyder, Mount Pocono; and Mrs. Albert Hanna, Pocono Pines with whom he resided.

'Uncle Willie' Opens At Playhouse

MOUNTAINHOME — Menasha Skulnik, Second Avenue's gift to American comedy, opens a one-week run tonight at Pocono Playhouse in "Uncle Willie."

Long a favorite with Second Avenue theatergoers, Skulnik made his Broadway bow in "The Fifth Season" four years ago. He later played the lead in Clifford Odets' drama, "The Flowering Peach."

The play runs through Saturday with matinees on Wednesday and the closing day. Reservations are available by phone through Cresco 7456.

Funeral services for Hopple are scheduled for 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Lanterman Funeral Home. Rev. Harold C. Eaton will officiate.

Interment will be made in Prospect Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 9.

Hopple was a member of East Stroudsburg Methodist Church. He is survived only by his mother.

Bushkill Playhouse To Open

BUSHKILL Playhouse will open for the 1958 Summer Season on Wednesday night.

First attraction on the Playhouse schedule this Summer is the mystery-melodrama "Dial M for Murder."

Director of the Playhouse resident company is Alfred Hyslop, an associate of the American Theatre Wing in New York and a private acting teacher.

Born in America, Hyslop went to England as a child and was educated there. He returned to America to serve in the U.S. Army during World War Two, after the war, received further theatrical training with the American Theatre Wing.

Broadway Debut
He made his Broadway debut as an actor with Boris Karloff in "The Shop At Sly Corner", which he describes as a "flap", was later an active member of the Eva Le Gallienne-Margaret Webster Repertory Theatre Company in Manhattan.

He returned to England in 1949 and appeared in the West End London production of Sidney Kingsley's "Detective Story".

In New York he had studied directing with Lee Strasberg and he had his first major opportunities in the field when he became director of productions at two London Theatre clubs: The Torch and The Water Gate. For six years, during the Winter months, he was affiliated with England's major theatrical production group, H. M. Tennant Ltd., as stage manager or company manager.

Two Killed In Plane Crash

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — A minute or so from a landing jet bomber whistling in for a landing at its home Langley Air Force Base crashed and exploded yesterday in a patch of woods only a quarter of a mile from a residential area. Both occupants were killed.

The B57 twin jet was only a minute or so from a landing after a local training flight when it plummeted to earth and exploded in a ball of fire. Wreckage and the broken bodies of the fliers were scattered for several hundred yards.

CROWE Insurance Agency presents its
WEEKLY INSURANCE LETTER

Dear Friends:

Research is a wonderful thing. Now it has turned up the news that a print of your dog's nose is a sure means of identifying him. The fact that no two canine schnozes are identical came to light because a company has been formed to issue life insurance on pedigreed dogs. (I haven't been able to find out how many researchers were bitten.)

A much more important fact-one that effects your own and your family's financial security—is this: No Two kinds of insurance protection are identical, either.

Don't let "cut-rate" claims fool you. There's only one practical way to find car and home insurance that gives you all the safety you need. That is to talk with an agent who is not employed by any insurance company—Our Agency—for instance. Our business depends on steering you right about which company's insurance to buy—on keeping you as a satisfied customer year after year. Give us a call and let us study your insurance needs. We won't charge you a penny and it may be the most important call you'll ever make.

Sincerely yours,

"All Right...I'll Tell You WHY I AM A CATHOLIC"

You may have heard that your neighbor is a Catholic because his father was. Perhaps you believe that ignorance, superstition and fear keep him loyal to his Faith.

But your common sense should tell you that these are NOT the reasons...that there MUST be something deep and vital and certain about a Faith which can hold the devoted loyalty of nearly 400 millions of people of every race, color and tongue on earth.

Not every Catholic can explain the reasons for his deep conviction in a way that you would understand. For the grace of God that touches a man's soul...and the willingness to believe that moves his heart...are elements of faith which cannot be readily reduced to logic and reason, nor easily explained.

But there are practical and common-sense reasons why so many millions of people are Catholics. And they are such convincing reasons that a young Catholic lawyer, with all the analytical exactness of his profession, has been moved to publish them in a booklet explaining "Why I Am A Catholic."

The Catholic system of thought, he says, provides him with reasonable and consistent answers to the basic questions which trouble mankind. He finds it reasonable to believe, as the Church teaches, that man has a physical body and a rational soul...that man and his world were created by God...and that man lives primarily "to return to God by saving his soul through love of God and his neighbor."

With these principles to guide him, the Catholic finds it both logical and necessary to fulfill his obligations to other men...to obey the civil laws...and to labor for the improvement of society as well as personal gain. For him, the basic principles of democratic freedom are not merely a political code of ethics but a fundamental part of his religion. Human rights, the right of private property, and government with the consent of the people, are essentials of Catholic philosophy of life.

Communism, the lawyer says, is a deadly menace to the world because the solutions it offers to men's problems, though definite, are false and often hideous. Catholicism alone, he adds, offers answers equally as definite and forceful, and backed up by an equal unity and zeal.

"Catholicism," he continues, "gives me confidence and courage to face the present and the future...the confidence of one who has a map upon which the path to a sound, secure and peaceful future is well outlined; the courage of one who knows that the guide has behind him the experience of 2,000 years, the viewpoint of the world itself, and the devotion of countless millions. I am a Catholic because I am convinced that the Catholic Church is the true church founded by Christ."

A timely pamphlet in which a Catholic layman examines in the light of Catholic teaching important questions of the day, will be mailed to you in a plain wrapper—and nobody will call on you. Write for Pamphlet No. KC-26.

It Takes Cooperation

Down through the years The Daily Record and the people of the Pocono Mountains have campaigned against unsightly signs along our picturesque highways.

But, sometimes it is quite evident that we are all missing the boat and in some degree responsible for some of the unsightly appearances of our roads.

By roads, we mean secondary thoroughfares as well as main highways.

Along our roads today we find political advertisements, directions to various events and circulars of various kinds nailed to trees and telephone poles.

Many of these signs are two or three years old and serve no purpose at all today.

Many of the political circulars deal with elections that have long since been settled. A winner and loser have been chosen, but the circulars continue to strike passing motorists in the eyes.

The loser in an incident of this type is the person whose picture appears on the poster, even though he is often not at all responsible for the circular being posted in the first place.

Often times committees formed to back an individual candidate are responsible for placing advertising throughout the area. These same committees should be responsible for seeing that advertising is also cleaned up at the close of an election.

The same is true for organizations holding events of one kind or another. Signs still in view two weeks after an event is over are of no value and certainly damage the appearance of our locality.

Keeping our highways clean is a project that needs the cooperation of everyone.

Opinions Of Other Editors

Delay In Little Rock

Considerable gall was required for Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas to urge compliance with a Federal court order. But he managed it.

After a U. S. judge granted a two-and-one-half-year delay in Little Rock school integration, the Governor urged Negro citizens to accept the ruling. When the court issued an order last year requiring integration, Governor Faubus turned out the National Guard to defy it.

There can be little quarrel with the observation of Judge Harry J. Lemley, who approved the delay, that racial incidents and the presence of troops were disturbing influences creating a "situation of tension."

But when the Judge defines the source of the trouble as "deep-seated popular opposition in Little Rock to the principle of integration," there is room for dissent.

Arkansas obviously doesn't care for integration but Negroes had been admitted to several state schools without untoward incident. The attitude of the state had been law-abiding and reasonable until Governor Faubus sided with the street mobs to defy a court order. There is the real source of the trouble with which the present occupant of the Federal court bench in Little Rock has to deal.

This new court order is accurately viewed as a victory for the cynical methods of Governor Faubus but this need cause no great concern. This is not the first, and probably not the last, time a public official has been able to impose on the almost endless tolerance of this country.

Nor do we believe, as some have suggested, that Congress must act. The Supreme Court decision favoring integration is law. The high court's own order, recognizing radical departure from custom, has specified gradual change designed to minimize controversy.

This new order is a part of the "orderly legal processes" through which this government operates. Notice of appeal has been filed and we must have confidence that, through these means, justice and decency will eventually prevail.—Pittsburgh Press.

The Pennsylvania Story

Shortway Vs. Turnpike

By Mason Denison.
(First Of A Series Of Four)
Harrisburg — Few items seemingly have titillated the imagination of modern man — and in terms of today it must be said, women too — as the exciting thought of pouring gigantic slabs of concrete or rolling

It is ironical too perhaps that this very turnpike, now once again the symbol of the now obsolete toll turnpikes should serve to convert Pennsylvania into split and bitter camps — as the super highway of tomorrow moves closer.

Hot on the highway agenda in Pennsylvania today is the proposed construction of a new super highway rivaling the famed Pennsylvania Turnpike which skirts across and through, via tunnels, southern tier counties.

This new super highway of another generation would cut squarely through the mid-section of the state in the eighteenth century when dirt and then plank turnpikes or toll roads made their debut.

It is ironical perhaps that it should have been Pennsylvania that again took the lead in the building of the Keystone State, and appropriately enough is known loosely as the "Keystone Shortway."

It would span the 279-mile distance between Stroudsburg in the east and Sharon in the west — as a four-lane, limited access, traffic light-less, toll-free, high speed expressway, an integral part of the new-born federal-state "Interstate Highway System."

Its building indeed will be another engineering and construction feat. Central state areas are bleeding for the Shortway. Southern state areas are bleeding against the Shortway as a threat to the economy of the areas served by the toll road Philadelphia - Pittsburgh Turnpike.

Should the Keystone Shortway be built — or shouldn't it be built?

Pennsylvania's Governor Leader over the protestations of politically-explosive Philadelphia has offered an adamant yes.

The Shortway on paper has started and is programmed. As a project it has been accepted by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads. It won't be built at one swat. It has been projected over a period of years — from 13 to 15 years for completion.

In that interval, the project — as so often has happened in the past — could be stopped or abandoned. Philadelphia and existing Turnpike interests contend that in addition to being an economic threat, the Shortway would be a toll-robbing of the slowly amortizing Pennsylvania Turnpike.

There are pros and cons on both sides of the road. Two years ago the State Department of Highways engaged a noted engineering firm to make an extensive survey of the proposed Keystone Shortway — covering its effect both as a free expressway and a toll turnpike.

The report has been a hush-hush report insofar as the department has been concerned — as are most "non-security" matters of this censorship-conscious state agency.

This column has learned from sources it intends to protect, the basic findings of this report which will be disclosed in this column during the next three days.

Indispensable Man

On Broadway — by Walter Winchell

The Headliners
Lightning flashes across the horizon of history and newspapermen record the thunder. One of the great thunderers was Herbert Bayard Swope. He knew that fire and fury are the stuff of headlines. Crime in the cities and terror on the battlefields. As a reporter and editor, Swope covered all the vagaries and agonies of mortal experience. . . . Shortly after World War I exploded, Swope was the first reporter to get into Germany after the blockade. He emerged with a page-one-der that won a Pulitzer Prize.

When Swope was editing the World, gambler Herman Rosenthal was murdered. The slaying involved a Police Lieutenant named Becker. Influential string-yankers attempted to clamp a hush on the matter. Swope launched an editorial barrage. He tolled day and night and unearthed headline-making stories of official corruption. Swope master-minded the case for D. A. Whitman, who was acclaimed for his handling of it. . . . Li Becker and the four gunmen responsible for the killing (Lefty Louie, Gyp the Blood, Dago Frank and Whitey Lewis) cooked in The Chair at Sing Sing.

because he allied himself to the imagination of his reader, and that is an enormous asset. . . . He once proudly quoted Kipling's comment that "a good reporter was the noblest work of God."

Herbert Bayard Swope was a good reporter.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower celebrate another happy wedding anniversary on July 1st. The love story was inaugurated when Mamie Doud met a young lieutenant named Eisenhower in San Antonio, Texas. He requested a date immediately. Mamie informed him that she was busy with bonus for weeks ahead. She added, however, that he might call her some afternoon in the distant future. "Fine," he grinned, "I'll be there tomorrow." And he was.

Suzi Parker, who became an international luminary after appearing in two flickers, is responsible for another notable feat: She became a star although she had practically no previous acting experience. . . . Miss Parker, incidentally, discovered that Trujillowood can be an incongruous place. As she once explained: "I never met Cary Grant before we were introduced on the stage for my test. Five minutes later, I was wrestling with him on a bed in front of a camera. It was all pretty funny and embarrassing, but Cary Grant was wonderful."

The yellow travelers in show biz who took the Fifth and lost their jobs — are winning the sympathy of some editorialists — who never expressed dismay when Comreds sought to destroy the careers of Americans. The big argument of those pro-Redditors: People in show biz — even if they are Reds — are not dangerous. Which gives us another opportunity to quote an excerpt from Ben Gitlow's book, "The Whole of Their Lives." Gitlow helped organize and lead the Communist Party here and then renounced it.

He noted that the greatest rules of writing and editing were laid out by the Red Queen in "Alice in Wonderland." When asked how to tell a story, he explained: "Begin at the beginning, go through to the end and then stop." Swope also pointed out that the most effective example of condensation — which is essential to superior reporting — was a two-word story written by St. John in his Gospel, when he said: "Jesus wept." Swope added: "In those two words he told a great deal more than if he had used hundreds of words."

Gitlow wrote: "For a long time communism penetrated and poisoned American intellectual and cultural life. Through their organizations of writers, actors, dancers, artists and cultural clubs, they were able to bludgeon the writer, the liberal, the artist, the actor, the teacher and minister to do their bidding — because to fight them, or remain neutral, involved the danger of being publicly disgraced as a Red-baiter, a fascist, a reactionary or a mercenary."

Hmf, my life story.

Robert S. Allen Reports . . .

Potent Barter With DeGaulle

Jim Riley Says:

Now We Have Walking Baseball Games

Don't be alarmed if some day you hear a baseball game walking down the street.

I mean I don't be alarmed if you spy Morgan "Weasall" Jones, of Delaware Water Gap, in the area.

Now, if "Weasall" isn't there, that's a different story. Then, there's something to worry about.

If you aren't too confused at this point, I'd like to point out that there isn't really a walking baseball game at all.

Actually, "Weasall" carries a small radio in his pocket, with a wire and tiny receiver leading to his ear. All the better to hear with, my dear.

It may sound complicated, but it's a great gadget for a baseball fan who likes privacy.

Washington — Secretary Dulles is taking a potent barter proposition to Paris for his momentous talks with Premier De Gaulle.

In exchange for allowing the U. S. to establish four to six in terminal range missile bases in France, it will be offered much-desired nuclear secrets and other assistance.

This proposal does NOT include nuclear weapons and how to produce them.

Instead, Dulles will proffer the following four-point "package":

Full details on the construction and operation of an atomic-powered submarine.

Nuclear advances in medicine and related fields.

Latest developments in atomic reactors.

Extensive exchange of nuclear scientists and technicians between the U. S. and France.

While these offers are far-reaching and unprecedented, their acceptance by De Gaulle is conjectural.

Reason is his determination to make France the fourth nuclear weapons power.

Powerfully supporting De Gaulle in this adamant stand is the decisive fact that France is far on the road to joining the U. S., Britain and Russia in possessing a nuclear arsenal.

Ambassador Amory Houghton has cabled Secretary Dulles that France will definitely conduct its first atomic tests this year.

As previously reported in this column, the Central Intelligence Agency has informed the National Security Council that these French explosions may take place in August or September in the Sahara Desert.

In Houghton's report, De Gaulle is described as contending that with France bent on becoming a nuclear power, it is beholden on the U. S. and Britain to assist her in achieving that goal for two reasons: France is their traditional and key ally; their aid would save France "hundreds of millions of dollars."

OVER A BARREL — The tall French Premier is in a strategic position to drive a hard bargain.

The U. S. is extremely anxious to get IRBM bases in France. There is equally grave concern as to De Gaulle's views regarding NATO, and on the very important but little known 1950 tri-part agreement, under which the U. S., Britain and France are committed to respond to the plea of any Middle Eastern country that is attacked.

Confronted with the sinister situation in strife-torn Lebanon, Washington and London are particularly sensitive about De Gaulle's attitude on the tri-part pact.

All this puts him in a strong position to seek concessions from the U. S.

There is no doubt De Gaulle will demand them. The big question is how much he will ask; how big his price will be.

It is certain to include assisting France to become the fourth nuclear weapons power. Ambassador Houghton has also advised Secretary Dulles that De Gaulle harbors another grandiose proposal.

This is to create a new NATO-type alliance in the Mediterranean, consisting of the pro-Western nations bordering on it. Under De Gaulle's plan, France would have the major role in this military-economic organization.

Representative Carl Durham (D., N. C.), chairman of the Joint Atomic Committee, fully confirms the Houghton-CIA reports about France's progress in nuclear weapons.

Members of his Committee visited France last October and learned of this first-hand. Also they were told by nuclear authorities there that "Money is not one of our problems," and scientists and technicians are being trained "around the clock."

"It has been our understanding for some time," Durham told this column, "that France will conduct its first atomic tests in the next six months. French progress in this field is generally under-estimated over here. They are much further advanced than is realized."

"Our Committee members who went there last year were immensely impressed by the magnitude of French activities and their pride in nuclear development. The French are now producing their own plutonium, and are expanding their atomic power program. They have excellent scientists and technicians, and are doing their utmost to train more of them. Cooperation between us and the French in this field should be encouraged."

Note: The U. S. and France already have one atomic agreement. Signed in November 1956, this pact calls for exchanging non-secret research and power information.

Mirror of Time

10 Years Ago

Japan — A violent earthquake and fires destroyed Fukue and other towns in Japan. No report of deaths yet.

Inocel — Over 200 delegates attended annual conference of Interstate Commission on Delaware River basin at Popocatepec Fire Tower on a Pocono Mt. ceremony for formal dedication ceremonies.

Scouts — The three scout units of Grace Luth. Church, E. S., will hike to top of Big Pocono Mountain today. Other young people were urged by Rev. Wunder, pastor, to join in the hike. They will walk to the summit where Rev. Wunder has secured access to the "Castle" and fire tower.

F.H. — The Friendly 4-H Club of E. S. met at the home of Miss M. Winkelman. Officers elected: Ann Fleming, pres.; Hilda Winkelman, sec'y; Irene Hollis, game leader; Gertrude Palmer, song leader and news reporter.

20 Years Ago

Invasion — Hundreds of young people come to caps in the Poconos. The railroad station is piled high with trunks and other luggage.

Temple Israel — Rabbi Gantz addressed new officials of the Sisterhood, of which Mrs. Ira Nagler is head. The splendid work of the outgoing pres., Mrs. J. Klinghofer, was praised. Mrs. Samuel Ellsweig is publicity chairman.

St. John's — The Brotherhood of St. John's Luth. Church met, with Howard G. Marshall presiding. After the meeting they adjourned to Biggs Amer. Restaurant for lunch.

A. L. Aux. — The annual banquet of the A. L. Aux. of Kemp Post was held at post home. Officers were elected, and Mrs. Walter Oyer was returned to the presidency.

Good Evening Ladies!

Too Much Drinking On TV

By Ken Duval
When her four-year-old swaggered up to her kitchen bar, beat it with his little fist and piped:

"Whiskey for the house! Where are the girls?" A lady in Trenton, N. J., sat right down and wrote me a letter.

Why, she asks, do the characters in the movies that come into her house via TV have to be shown eternally pouring liquor and drinking it?

She is particularly sore at the Westerns, but she says that in almost any drawingroom scene the same thing happens. How, she wants to know, can she teach her children to shun the bottle when they get the impression from the monster in the living room that everybody uses it? And when her six-year-old calls his morning orange juice his cocktail?

Well, madam, this guzzling is prevalent on my screen, too, and while I don't condone it, and it's too late to corrupt my morals, I think maybe I understand it. Not one actor in a hundred knows what to do with his hands or, for that matter, how to stand still in one place and talk. Writers, kneading this, put bottles and glasses in their paws.

Since the saloon was the social center of towns in the old West, that is where much of the off-horse action in the Westerns takes place. When the bad boys gather to plot the robbery of the town bank, they do it in a saloon, tossing off tall glasses of raw whiskey, just one of which would floor any man I know in my sissy circle. After seven such drinks each, they leap on their horses and ride away as sober as a teetotaler on a bicycle. I can see that this would give kids an erroneous notion of how whiskey works.

You can usually spot the sheriff or marshal in such places, because they are the clean-shaven and clear-complexioned who say "No" when offered a drink. I was sick for a week that time Marshal Matt Dillon actually accepted one and downed it like a rustler. I figured he must have forgotten his lines.

In the domestic dramas, things are just about as alcoholic. Let's say the scene shows Gerald Poofen, a husband. He is worried because his wife has seemed so happy lately and he can't figure out why. He is thinking of hiring a private eye to find out. Obviously, he can't just stand there registering worry. What can he do with his hands? The writer has to get him into action, so he crosses the room and pours himself a big slug.

Now, we see the wife entering the apartment of the other man. She isn't there two minutes before the other man says, "Let's have a drink, darling, and forget all about that silly old Gerald Poofen."

When a movie character is burdened with financial troubles, has just lost his job, is being pressed by his creditors and there is an eviction notice on his apartment door, he tells a friend, "I have to think, think, think!" We next see him sitting alone in a saloon, the waiter saying, "Haven't you had about enough, Buddy?" He says, "Go 'way. I have to think, think, think!"

After an evening of this sort of thing I have an impulse to wipe up the floor under the set with a bar rag. I can see that it is no help in educating children concerning the facts of alcohol. Even I hope that Matt Dillon took that drink only because he felt a cold coming on.

Miss Ruth Woodward Ottaway Is Bride Of Dunham B. Sherer II At Buck Hill

Buck Hill—The deepest pink of the mountain laurel set the color scheme for the marriage of Miss Ruth Woodward Ottaway, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Ottaway of Endicott, N.Y., and Buck Hill Falls, on Saturday afternoon at 3 to Dunham B. Sherer II, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Sherer of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Buck Hill Falls.

They were married in the Canadensis Methodist Church, Rev. Samuel Little of the Endwell Methodist Church, Endwell, N.Y., performed the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of ivory peau de soie with applied lily-of-the-valley motifs on the cap sleeves and the bouffant skirt. Her colonial bouquet was of white roses, lily-of-the-valley and stephanotis. A cap of lily-of-the-valley and lace held her fingertip veil.

Miss Sally Sommers of St. Davids was maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Cynthia Harper of Newtown, Miss Sallie Sherer of Buck Hill Falls; Miss Eugenie Sherer of Searsdale, N.Y.; Miss Faith Robbins, Haverford; Mrs. Philip Stevens, Buck Hill Falls; Miss Grace Spendlove, of Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

All of the attendants wore princess-style dresses in watermelon pink silk organza with matching shoes. The maid of honor carried sterling silver roses and wore a headpiece of gray delphinium. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of sweetheart roses and their headpieces were of sweetheart roses and green leaves.

James H. Ottaway Jr., brother of the bride, was best man. The ushers were P. Thomas Schoenemann of Brooklyn, N.Y.; Elwood J. Suereth of York; E. Luke Stone, Englewood, N.J.; David B. Ottaway of Endicott, N.Y.; Peter H. Stone, Brooklyn, N.Y.; Frank Hamm, Jr., of Brooklyn, N.Y.

The bride's mother wore a sheath dress of Dresden rose peau de soie in a water color print, with a silver green Swiss straw picture hat with rose and green flowers, and green shoes to match the hat.

The bridegroom's mother wore a sheath of beige lace, with a sandalwood hat with matching rose, and sandalwood accessories.

The church was decorated with bouquets of white flowers on the altar against the green of barked rhododendron. Baskets of laurel were set on the windowsills.

The Kanes Celebrate Anniversary

Bartonsville—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kane, owners and operators of Kane's Motel Bartonsville, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary on June 20.

The Kanes, former residents of Wayne County, are the parents of seven children. They have six daughters, Mrs. John Riley, of Scotrun; Mrs. Harry Kulikowski of Binghamton, New York; Mrs. Harry Walters, of Germany; Shirley, Linda and Susan, at home. They also have one son, Gary, at home.

Four grandchildren have been added to the family tree. They are John Riley, Jr., Mark Kulikowski, Bryan Walters and Donna Walters. Mr. and Mrs. Kane have never seen the Walters youngsters who were born in Germany where their father, Airman 1/C Harry Walters, has been stationed for several years. But the Kanes are looking forward to the month of August are John Riley, Jr., Mark Kulikowski, Shirley Kane, Linda Kane, Susan Kane and Gary Kane.

On Friday night members of the family and friends helped Mr. and Mrs. Kane celebrate their anniversary. The honored guests were presented with gifts during a party held at their home. A social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kane, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Walters, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Coss, Mr. and Mrs. John Riley, Mrs. Henry Kulikowski, Mrs. Harry Walters, John Riley, Jr., Mark Kulikowski, Shirley Kane, Linda Kane, Susan Kane and Gary Kane.

Pike Co. GOP Women Plan Study Projects

Dingman's Ferry—The Pike County Council of Republican Women at their closing meeting of the Summer planned several study topics for the Fall: the duties of township committeemen and women; pending legislation in Harrisburg and Washington; and news about candidates.

Mrs. Russell Eshback, Bushkill, will try to schedule as speakers women active in nearby county councils. Mrs. Henrietta Pennell presided at the meeting which was held at the home of Miss Lillian Diehl, Harford St., Milford. The next meeting will be held the second Monday in September.

The wedding cake with the tiers separated by white pillars was topped with a miniature urn filled with lily-of-the-valley. Leaving for their wedding trip to Europe, the bride wore a bright green and light blue to mauve flower-patterned dress with a bright green coat, black hat, black patent leather shoes and bag.

She is a graduate of Baldwin School, Bryn Mawr, and a 1958 graduate of Swarthmore College.

Mr. Sherer, an electrical engineer, is a graduate of Polytechnic Preparatory County Day School, Brooklyn, N.Y., and a 1958 graduate of Yale University.

Mrs. John B. Murray

Miss Behney, Area Teacher Married To John B. Murray

Miss Joyee Behney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde H. Behney of Orwin and John B. Murray, son of Mrs. Anna Murray and the late William Murray of New York were married Saturday morning in St. Peter and Paul's Catholic Church, Tower City.

The Rev. Paul Bradley performed the double ring ceremony at 11.

White flowers decorated the main and side altars. Mrs. Andrew Carroll presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist, Robert Williams.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a gown of pure silk organza over taffeta with a fitted princess bodice and long tapered sleeves. The gown had a hand-beaded scoop neckline and appliques of re-embroidered lace and iridescent sequins. The applique was repeated on the back petals of the Dolly Madison style skirt which featured a full chapel train. A beaded silk organza bandeau held her fingertip veil of silk illusion white orchid center.

Miss Anne Venezia of Long Island attended her as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Behney, of Orwin, sister of the bride, and Miss Helen Murray of Harrisburg, sister of the bridegroom. The attendants wore bouffant floor length gowns of white eyelet embroidered swiss organza. The fitted bodices had square necklines ending in cap sleeves with the skirts fashioned along princess lines. They wore picture hats in matching braid with an open crown and white satin streamers, and each carried a basket of spring flowers.

The flower girl, Miss Joan Murray, niece of the bridegroom, wore a floor length gown of white eyelet embroidered swiss organza over taffeta with fitted bodice, short sleeves and square neckline. A matching sash of white organza with a large back bow fell to the hem of the skirt. She carried a small basket of spring flowers to match those of the other attendants. She wore a halo of white flowers.

William Murray, of Long Island, brother of the bridegroom served as the best man. Ushers included Donald H. Behney, brother of the bride and Walter Russelavage of Reinerton, Douglas Behney, nephew of the bride was the ring bearer.

The bride, a graduate of the Porter Township High School and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College is a teacher in the Stroudsburg High School. The bridegroom, also a graduate of the Porter Township High School and the New York State Maritime Academy is now employed by the American Export Lines as Third Mate on the S. S. Exceller.

A reception was held at the American Legion Home in Tower City, after which the couple left on a trip to Bermuda.

Susan Angle Married In Old Church

Cherry Valley—Miss Susan E. Angle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Angle of Cranford, N.J., and Minisink Hills, was married on Saturday at 10:30 a.m. in the historic Cherry Valley Methodist Church, to Charles C. Armitage Jr. of Stroudsburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Armitage Sr. of Aklawaha, Fla.

Rev. C. Clyde Levergood performed the single ring ceremony. Organ music throughout the ceremony was furnished by Mrs. Clyde Levergood.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a dress of white tulle with a yoke of lace with a portrait neckline of hand-clipped lace scallops and lace sleeves. The same lace motif was repeated on the bouffant skirt in appliques. A Juliet cap of seed pearls held her elbow length veil. She carried a white Bible with white and pink sweetheart roses.

Her maid of honor was her sister, Miss Gretchen Angle, of Cranford, who wore a ballerina length dress of powder blue and carried a colonial bouquet.

James Wallace of Cherry Valley was best man.

A reception was held in the church social rooms.

The bride is a graduate of Cranford High School in the class of 1956 and is employed as a secretary of Air Reduction Sales Co., Union, N.J. The bridegroom attended Stroudsburg High School and is employed as a die cutter of P. J. Meith Co., Kenilworth, N. J.

After a honeymoon in Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Armitage will live in Garwood, N.J.

The Wyckoff Shopper

Wyckoff

There was something very cozy and friendly about Thursday evening's meeting of The Gallery at the Dave Harrington home in Minisink Hills, and I can honestly say it was one of the most pleasant events in weeks. Strangely enough, I had never been in this section of our beautiful county before . . . and was amazed to find that just a few miles from the two busy Stroudsburgs, there is a place of such uninterrupted peace and quiet.

The Harrington home is an outgrowth of a picturesque old barn dominating a hilltop. It is a creation of gray shingles, and wide windows, looking out upon a handsome patio where our meeting was held. Mrs. Harrington, an interpretive dancer, is a vivacious, delightful hostess; Mr. Harrington, an artist in just about every medium, but particularly noted for his murals of glass, is quiet, smiling, and humble. Together with their son and his wife, who resembles Shelley Winters and has a fascinating German accent, and their daughter, Carol Cartwright, who is one of the most striking red-heads I've ever seen, they were wonderful hosts. The thirty-or-so of us who gathered in the barn studio to watch a demonstration of Mr. Harrington's work in pastel, and hear Mrs. Harrington's amusing comments on their recent trip through South America, can attest to that.

I was interested to see Mr. Harrington working with Grumbacher pastels, for we carry this famous line of art supplies in Walter Logan's department here at Wyckoff's. Our host feels that pastels are a wonderful medium in which to work while traveling, since they are so easy to transport. He showed us how, after blocking out the picture with pencil, he uses hard pastels to begin the actual color process. He also uses fixative rather frequently, and softer pastels in overlay-color and final touches, thus achieving a wonderfully opalescent quality. His work is amazingly meticulous and glowing, and from a distance has much the same sheen as a painting in oils.

Since I cannot paint, but can only appreciate, I was particularly impressed with the effects Mr. Harrington was able to produce with pastels. He showed how easy it is to make changes in a picture when working in this medium . . . and how simple it is to inject dominant tones and shadows. I gathered that, in his opinion, the young artist in an experimental stage is overlooking a very malleable form of self-expression if he does not have a try at pastels.

Much of Mr. Harrington's painting is contemporary in feeling. His studio walls are decorated with—to my eyes—wildly distorted figures, flamboyant cocks, colorful flowers. He admires Picasso—and has the same flair for brilliant color. The South American paintings, which he modestly refers to as "sketches from which I can work", are realistic and represent a change of pace which he found refreshing.

Between the paintings and Mrs. Harrington's display of hand woven skirts, hammocks, blouses, and hand-made laces collected on her travels among the isolated tribes of Paraguay, Bolivia, etc., it was an evening of keen enjoyment. The refreshments concluding it were delicious, but incidental . . . the entire visit had been one to satisfy one's appetite for GOOD things!

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

There are many reasons why wedding up Ruthie Ottaway's wedding comes as a particular pleasure, quite apart from the fact that she is the Big Boss's daughter, and we couldn't do without him.

Primarily, the pleasure came because Ruth is not only the boss's daughter but a friend and former fellow-worker of the whole editorial staff. She sweltered with us during the scorching summers in the old building, got just as smeared with printer's ink; and went with Les on a fatal accident, gamely putting off being sick until her task was done. There is a peculiar empathy that springs up in an editorial room against which time, space and circumstances are no barrier.

But then again, let's face it, part of the pleasure came because I haven't before had the opportunity of writing up a wedding of such elaborate perfection. We don't have many weddings with canopies at the church and at the house and leading down over the lawn; not with green and white striped marquees big enough for 350 guests; not with walkie-talkies correlating the time of the arrival of the wedding cake; not with even the waitresses in uniform to match the laurel; not with real rose petals to throw after the bride and bridegroom.

Quite frankly, I was very impressed, but over the years of covering weddings I've discovered a seeming paradox: no wedding is quite perfect if it is too perfect. A wedding is a time of deep emotion, and emotions and a train dispatcher's sense of time and stage manager's eye for detail just don't go together.

When perfection breaks down into human mistakes, that's when the heart is touched. So when the number of those tiny buttons marching down the back of Ruthie's dress just wouldn't match the number of tiny loops to close them, and the hands of the clock moved inexorably forward, and hurrying fingers fumbled . . . When the bride's mother was rushed off to church minus her corsage . . . When the bride's father, in the elaborate change of partners in the wedding dance couldn't locate the bridegroom's mother in the throng . . .

Why then you realize that this isn't a stage wedding but real people plighting their troth, real families giving their hostages to the future. That's also why any wedding—no matter how large and no matter how small, with the receiving line in the back of the church or a reception under a marquee—is perfect when the right people are marrying each other and their families are happy about it.

Game Before Meeting Of Crusaders

Bartonsville—A softball game preceded the June meeting of the Junior Crusaders of St. John's Lutheran Sunday School held at the parish home on Thursday night, June 19.

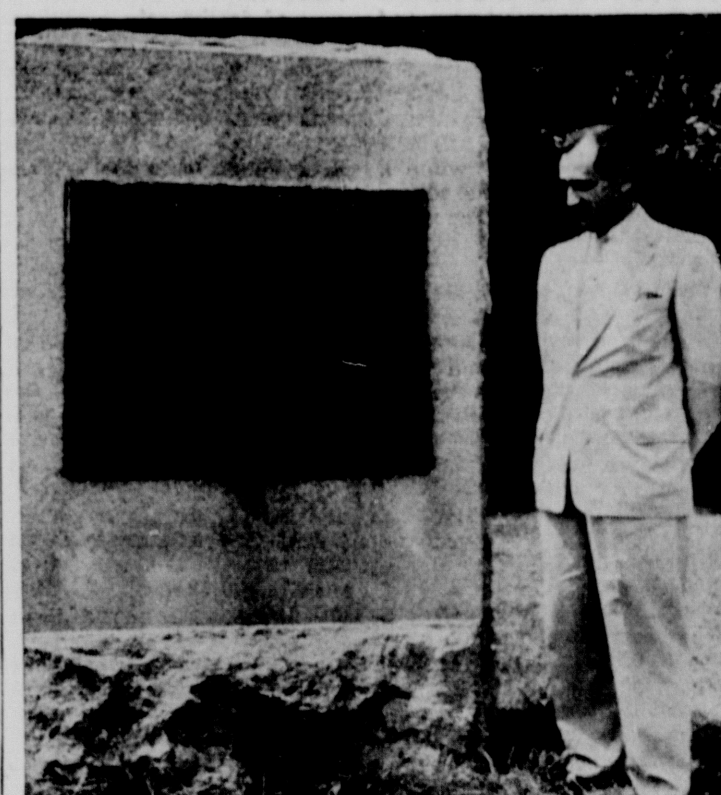

Plans were made to hold a hot dog roast on the next meeting date. Each person attending is asked to bring the hot dogs and rolls he can eat. Beverages will be furnished by members of the Crusader Class. Members are urged to bring their parents and friends.

Devotions opened with songs led by David Ball, Dawn Fralley read the Scripture lesson and in prayer. A baseball Bible quiz was conducted by David Ball. Winning was the team captained by Amy Young.

The birthdays of Nancy Fralley and Joanne Dunbar were celebrated when refreshments were served by their mothers Mrs. Fred Fralley and Mrs. Joseph Dunbar. The centerpiece was a low basket of mixed Spring flowers. Flanking it were two decorated birthday cakes with lighted candles, cake, ice cream, candy and beverages were served.

Those attending were Dolores Marvin, Theresa Marvin, Nancy Fralley, Amy Young, Dawn Fralley, Kathryn Cyphers, Sarah Jane Cyphers, Joanne Dunbar, Sharon Oyer, John Smith, Eugene Learn, John Field, David Ball, Mrs. Fred Fralley, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, Mrs. Beatrice Swink, Mr. and Mrs. Haviland Heller and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Field.

Boats Kept Trim, Neat With Valspar

MANY boat owners have a problem as to what is the best finish to apply to their boat. You'll find Pocono Paint-Up carries a well stocked Marine Paints Department and Cap'n Doug Delp is ready to help you in choosing the right product and finish.

"Cap'n Doug", who is Douglas Delp, has had a great deal of experience in the paint business. Being an avid boat enthusiast, he is keenly interested in this marine department. If you're a boat owner, or one of the growing number of boating fans in this area, you'll probably be interested in what this new department has to offer.

First of all it features the complete line of Valspar Marine Finishes. There's a Valspar finish for every surface.

Pride of ownership, as you know, is boating's greatest pleasure. It's compete when your craft reflects that pride in trim, ship-shape appearance that lasts through season after season.

This proper upkeep and protection will determine the life of your boat.

Proper upkeep can be made easier and your long-run costs lower if you start with the right finish.

Your boat represents a substantial investment. It is just common sense to protect that investment with the best care possible.

After all, the greatest cost in painting is not the paint required, but the labor (your own or paid professional) by which it is applied.

For example, the finish on hulls, or topsides (usually white) need never be stripped to the wood if top quality finishes have been applied properly under the right conditions.

See Weiss For Air Conditioning

EACH YEAR, air conditioning is increasing its gain in housing, industrial plants and shops throughout the country. The reason, of course, is obvious; people work better and think better when they're comfortable.

True Air Conditioning, says M. F. Weiss, Jr., of Brodheadsville, is controlled humidity and controlled circulation of dust-free air. Control through the proper choice and installation of Air Conditioning equipment can mean more business for the Main St. merchant, more production for the industrial plant and more restful relaxation and sleep in your home.

If you're even remotely thinking of Air Conditioning, it would be worth your while to see M. F. Weiss of Brodheadsville for any information you may be in doubt about.

They are authorized dealers for both General Electric and Aircor Air Conditioning units and stock window type, package unit type and engineered duct-type installation.

Interested in better production in your plant . . . or increased store traffic? Plan now to make these things come true by calling in M. F. Weiss.

New Civil Defense Headquarters Now In Lehigh

Anderson In Charge Of Office

LEHIGHTON — The Eastern Area Civil Defense Headquarters was moved here from Quakertown Friday.

It is now located in the former Pennsylvania Turnpike garage and offices on Blakeslee Blvd., along Route 443.

John Anderson of Swiftwater, area director, will be in charge.

The headquarters serves 19 counties including Monroe, Carbon, Schuylkill, Lehigh, Northampton, Bucks, Montgomery, Chester, Philadelphia, Luzerne, Lancaster, Berks, Wayne, Pike, Susquehanna, Wyoming, Delaware and York.

Location

In selecting Lehigh, state CD officials thought it was centrally located for the 19 counties and had buildings with the required amount of space and office facilities.

The building has 10,000 square feet of floor space and large parking facilities. A large room will be used for classroom instruction in conjunction with the survival plan.

Two Local Youths In Training

TWO LOCAL youths, students at Pennsylvania Military College, have arrived at Fort George G. Meade, Md., to participate in the Second Army Reserve Officers Training Corps summer encampment.

They are Walter John Adelman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Adelman, 2010 N. Fifth St., and Richard A. Hintze, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Hintze, 515 Brown St., both of Stroudsburg.

They are both Stroudsburg High School graduates.

The cadets, representing 26 colleges and universities, will act as platoon leaders, company and battle group commanders, issue orders, and supervise other cadets.

Six Weeks

During the six weeks of encampment, the cadets will receive training of a practical nature which cannot be given during the academic year.

They will be given the opportunity to serve as leaders and to apply actively the theoretical instructions they have received in the classrooms at their institutions.

All students will be allowed to fire many of the Army's weapons and to learn how to employ weapons under field conditions.

The cadets will be under the supervision of and will be trained by experienced Army officers and noncommissioned officers who are, in most instances, instructors and assistant instructors of military science and tactics at a college or university.

Services Held For Holloway

Husband Of Local Girl To Study On Fulbright Grant

THE UNITED STATES Department of State has formally announced the awarding of a Fulbright Grant to William A. Campbell.

Campbell will teach in Australia for a period of one year, beginning September, 1958. Under the provisions of the grant, he will teach somewhere in Australia or Tasmania, while Kellie S. McDonald, of Gilgandra, Australia, will teach in the United States.

Campbell will be one of approximately 400 teachers or scholars selected for the honor of participation in the Fulbright Program by the United States Board of Foreign Scholarships, the members of which are appointed by the President of the United States.

Program Funds

Funds for carrying out the program under the Fulbright Act are certain foreign currencies or credits owed to or owned by the Treasury of the United States. Under executive agreement, the program is currently in effect in the following countries of the world: Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Luxembourg, Brazil, Burma, Chile, Colombia, Denmark, Ecuador, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Iceland, India, Iraq, Israel, New Zealand, Norway, Pakistan, Peru, Philippines, Thailand, Turkey, United Kingdom.

Campbell is currently teaching geography and science at Springfield, Pa., and is active in the athletic program.

He received a bachelor of science degree from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and a master of arts degree from Temple University.

He has done advanced graduate work at Columbia University and is presently working toward his doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania.

Campbell will leave from San Francisco on July 28, and will arrive in Sydney, Australia, August 22. He will be accompanied by his wife, Gloria, and children, William 7, and Victoria 4.

He is the husband of the former Gloria Caramella, East Stroudsburg native.

Honor For Linda Rumsey

MISS LILLIE S. Turman, Headmistress of Moravian Seminary for Girls at Green Pond, Bethlehem, has announced the Honor Rolls for the sixth marking period.

On the Merit Honor Roll with an average of B-Plus is Linda Rumsey, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John L. Rumsey, 401 Main St., Stroudsburg.

Linda will enter the 12th grade at the Seminary in September.

Two Sides To Story

SAIGON — South Viet Nam accused Cambodia yesterday of complaining of an invasion while its troops actually were trying to take Vietnamese territory.

Bloodmobile To Visit Signal Depot

TOBYHANNA — The Red Cross Bloodmobile will make its semi-annual visit to Tobyhanna Signal Depot on July 14 and 15.

In eight previous visits, a total of 3,627 pints of blood has been collected. The depot record for donations was set in January of 1957 when 531 persons contributed.

In January of this year, a collection of 525 pints of blood was made, second highest in the depot's history.

Clyde Burke, information officer, is chairman of the drive.

Eagles To Hold Meeting

STROUDSBURG Fraternal Order of Eagles No. 1106 will hold its first semi-monthly meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the lodge rooms.

Past Presidents will meet following the regular meeting. Luncheon to follow.

Tannersville Soldier Ends Fort Gordon Radio Course

FORT GORDON, Ga.—Pvt. Alvin J. Kresge, son of Mrs. Teresa Ralsh, Route, Tannersville, Pa., recently completed the 15-week radio teletype operator course here at the Army's Southeastern Signal School.

Kresge entered the Army in December 1957 and received basic training at Fort Knox, Ky.

The 23-year-old soldier is a 1953 graduate of Pocono High School, Tannersville, and was formerly employed by Cyphers Electric, Bartonsville.

Services For Mrs. Dimmick

FUNERAL services for Mrs. Rosetta K. Dimmick, East Stroudsburg, RD 1, were held yesterday in Zion Lutheran Church, Middle Smithfield Township.

Rev. H. F. Gernert, Jr., officiated and burial was in Zion Lutheran Cemetery. Pallbearers were Glen Shively, Ruben Treble, Harold Treble, Irvin Smith, Julian Michaels and Joseph Kimnor.

William R. Thomas Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Services For Mrs. Heller

FUNERAL services for Mrs. Elizabeth Heller, 86, formerly of 710 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, were held Saturday in the William H. Clark Funeral Home.

Rev. Charles Staples officiated and burial was in the Stroudsburg Cemetery.

You can move mountains!

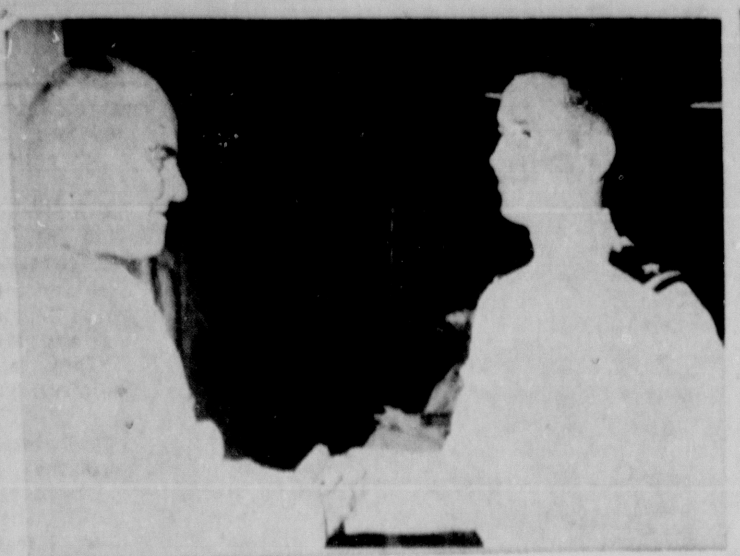

Wherever you live, blight is a danger to your personal and economic security. Slums breed silently, strike swiftly, reach out faster and further than you think. That's why so many people have banded together to fight blight. They've won many a victory, helped move many a mountain.

In Chicago, one woman organized fifty Block Clubs to prevent neighborhood decay. In Norristown, Pa., the real estate board got 500 substandard housing units improved, 50 hopeless slum units destroyed. In Dayton, Ohio, high school students analyze neighborhood problems, publish a neighborhood newsletter to keep residents alert to blight.

Viewing Screens

PIERRE BOULLE'S popular novel, "Face of a Hero," will be dramatized in November on "Playhouse 90," prior to its presentation as a Broadway play. . . . Vincent Price has been signed as host for ABC's upcoming series, "ESP," dealing with the mysterious "sixth sense" of extrasensory perception, which debuts Friday, July 11.

Two of the most popular stories in American literature, "Little Women" and "The Gift of the Magi," will be presented as hour-long musicals on CBS next season. . . . "Bat Master" starring the derby-wearing Western hero, is set to bow on NBC Oct. 1 in the 9:30 time period, following the new Milton Berle show.

Viewers will be in for a surprise today, unless they know of the many new shows which will be seen for the first time. At 10 this morning on ch. 2 and 10 "For Love or Money" debuts, with Bill Nimmo as quizmaster, wherein contestants will have to decide whether they are fonder of a valuable prize than an unknown sum of money. Following at 10:30 Merv Griffin introduces "Play Your Hunch," in which two husband-and-wife teams compete.

For the small fry, Fred Robbins brings them a new cartoon show at 12:30 p.m. on ch. 5. . . . Ch. 3 and 4 sends four new programs to afternoon viewers, as follows: 2 p.m. "Lucky Partners," a half-hour audience-participation game; 2:30 p.m. Fred Robbins hosts "Haggis Baggis," in which contestants try to identify a concealed photograph of a well-known personality; 3 p.m. Pat Benoit stars in "Today Is Ours," a dramatic serial of a woman who must divide her time between rearing her 12-year-old son and working at her job as assistant principal of a high school; 3:30 p.m. "From These Roots," story of the conflicts and destinies of the Fraser family as they unfold against the background of life in an American town.

The first in a 15-episode serial, filmed in London, concerning an American boy and his British buddy, who become innocently involved with a trio of thieves, will be presented on the "Mickey Mouse Club" at 5:30 p.m. on ch. 6 and 7. . . . 7:30 p.m. on ch. 3 and 4 brings the nighttime version of the new "Haggis Baggis," with Jack Linkletter as quizmaster, which will be seen each Monday at this time.

Mickey Rooney resorts to the comedy-tough guy tactics which made him famous, in a brush with a gang of juvenile delinquents, on "December Bride" at 9:30 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10. . . . Following at 10 p.m. on ch. 2 and 10 the supreme medical objective, to wipe out the common cold, is the basis for the "Studio One" presentation of "The Undiscovered," starring Marilyn Erskine, John Lupton, Philip Abbott, Edward Andrews and Nancy Hadley.

Sports
Baseball at 8:55 p.m. on ch. 13—Los Angeles Dodgers vs. St. Louis.
Boxing at 10 p.m. on ch. 5—Tony DiBiase vs. Eddie Lynch, welterweights, 10 rounds.

Effort

Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Murphy celebrate their 38th wedding anniversary on June 26.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gleisberg, of Sciota, were taken into membership of Salem Gilbert Church by letter of transfer on Sunday.

St. John's Lutheran Secret Pal Club held a picnic in the grove at Kresgeville on June 28. Music and a cakewalk will be featured.

Officials of Effort Methodist Church met Tuesday night at the church. Plans are being made to raise funds and purchase a new piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Dotter and daughter, Charlotte, Mrs. Gertrude Shupp and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Rinker visited Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mohrey of Northampton.

Missionary Society of Pleasant Valley parish will meet June 30 at St. John's, Effort.

Delay In Filing of Claims Costly

SOME of the 50 to 65 year old disabled people in the Stroudsburg area are losing money by delaying their claims for their social security disability payments according to the Easton Social Security Office.

The local office pointed out that the law requires a six-month waiting period before benefits can begin, but that eligible people who have already been disabled that long can get payments beginning with the month in which they apply.

Benefits are not payable for any month before the actual month of application. If they delay beyond that time, they may lose one or more monthly checks.

In explaining who can qualify for the payments, the social security office said that the disabled person must be between 50 and 65 years of age, must have had a prescribed period of coverage under social security, and must be unable because of disability to do any substantial, gainful work.

Protection

Disabled workers under age 50 may have their social security records frozen to protect their future benefits.

Whether the disabled person is over age 50 or under age 50, he should file an application to establish a period of disability, the social security office stated.

In some cases, the workers who have been severely disabled for a long time and who do not file before July 1, 1958, may lose their rights to have their social security record frozen and to receive disability insurance benefits.

To avoid any loss, the social security office advised severely disabled Stroudsburg workers to contact their nearest social security office before July 1, 1958, if they have not already done so.

Rolls Show Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported yesterday that unemployment among workers insured for jobless benefits declined to a new 1958 low during the week ended June 14.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Singer Roberta Linn was reported much improved yesterday at a hospital.

Schools Must Look To Future Dates

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles representing the summary of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund study of K-12 education which was released June 23.)

G. Financing
All of the problems of the schools lead us back sooner or later to one basic problem—financing. It is a problem with which we cannot afford to cope half-heartedly. An educational system grudgingly and tardily patched to meet the needs of the moment will be perpetually out of date.

It is likely that 10 years hence our schools and colleges will require at least double their present level of financial support.

It is the weakness in the state and local taxing systems more than anything else that gives rise to current proposals for increased Federal support of education. For those who wish to resist or postpone the resort to Federal funds and at the same time not constrict educational services there seems to be only one alternative: a thorough, painful, politically courageous overhaul of state and local tax systems.

Federal programs in education now exist on a large scale. It is certain that they will increase both in scale and in variety. There are educational problems gravely affecting the national interest which may be soluble only through Federal action.

It would be well to bear in mind four principles in appraising proposals for Federal support of education:

1. The Federal Government should address itself to those needs which educational leaders have identified as having a high priority.

2. Federal funds should constitute one source of support among many. State, local and private sources of funds should continue to be the major factor in the support of education.

3. It should preserve local leadership and local control over education.

4. It should be based on a recognition that the Government inevitably exercises a certain leadership function in whatever it does.

Perhaps the most popular form of Federal support for education is the scholarship program. Scholarships involve a minimum hazard of Federal interference. As long as very few institutions charge tuition covering the full cost of education, a scholarship program which enables the student to pay his tuition should provide the college with a supplementary grant to make up the full cost of his education.

To the extent that the Federal Government can assist in building construction, either through loans or outright grants, it will be engaging in one of the most helpful and least hazardous forms of support to education.

The share of privately financed colleges and universities of total enrollments has already declined to well below 50 percent, and within fifteen years their share of students could easily be closer to 25 percent.

Unquestionably the solution for the privately financed institutions lies not in any one device but in the simultaneous exploration of numerous paths—both for cutting costs and for raising money; for example, eliminating unnecessary frills in the curriculum; sharing facilities with neighboring institutions; dropping the extravagant notion that every other institution must offer a carbon copy of the curriculum offered by every other institution; making radically better use of physical facilities; raising tuition; cultivating increased corporate and alumni giving; and obtaining certain kinds of Federal support.

Unless changes such as these are carried out there is real danger that the influence of private higher education will progressively decline.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

For Monday, June 30, 1958

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Your planetary aspects stress discernment and intelligent management in all affairs if you would make headway now. Be calm and cheerful, too. It will help a lot.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus)—You will have to maneuver cleverly and adroitly to get what you want now. But, even if your best efforts don't bring immediate results, they will pay off later. Be of good heart.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your influences are quite restrictive now so be prepared to cope with them and cheerfully accept added chores—even difficulties. Gemini's ingenuity will see you through.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Don't anticipate trouble or problems, but do be cautious so as not to invite errors. You can have a good day.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—You, too, must slow down a bit now. Be your genial self first of all. Tackle urgent problems first, others in the order of their importance. There's no need to worry; be straightforward.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—A great big "No" to lightly made promises or undertakings heavier than you can handle. This is a day in which to stress conservation.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Influences are neither too generous nor too restrictive. It's up to you to choose the proper means and tempo for handling obligations. Cut down a too crowded

Oral Roberts Crusade To Take Place In Allentown

FIRST ASSEMBLY of God Church, Stroudsburg, will be one of the sponsoring churches for the Oral Roberts "Million Souls for Christ" Crusade which will be held in Allentown July 4 through 12.

Rev. J. Russell Cairns is pastor of the local church. He and members of his congregation are planning to attend services throughout the 10-day crusade.

One of the country's best known evangelists, Rev. Roberts will conduct the services in a large canvas tent cathedral at the Allentown Fair grounds. The fire-proof, eight-pole tent seats 14,000.

Salvation
In 10 years, his evangelistic ministry has snowballed into worldwide proportions. Frail and stuttering as a boy, the Ada, Okla.-born minister's son found his own salvation at the age of 17.

Now, at 40, he looks back to remember that his call to the full gospel ministry was the result of an almost unbelievable recovery from tuberculosis through faith and prayer.

The past 22 years, he has been motivated by his inner conviction that he has had a job to do for the God who healed him.

He now addresses as many as 20,000 people in a single service, compared to 200 in a small town in 1947. In the last 10 years, an estimated 15 to 20 million people have heard Roberts in person.

Probers Hear Of Carpenter Embezzlement

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate probers were told yesterday that William L. Hutcheson late president of the Carpenters Union, embezzled union property worth $290,000 and left it to his heirs.

As the charge was outlined before the special Senate Rackets Committee by Robert F. Kennedy, its counsel, Hutcheson's son Maurice sat poker-faced in the witness chair.

Maurice Hutcheson succeeded his father as president of the union. He refused to tell the senators whether he had used union money to fix a Lake County, Indiana, grand jury investigating Indiana highway scandals.

The younger Hutcheson also refused to say whether he had an arrangement with James R. Hoffa, president of the Teamsters Union, under which Hoffa was to have made himself useful to him in return for Hutcheson's support "on the question of his (Hoffa's) being ousted from the AFL-CIO."

This was the closest the committee came to asking Hutcheson about allegations by Kennedy that Hutcheson and Hoffa had conspired with Max Raddock, publisher of a Flushing, N.Y., labor paper, and others to fix the Lake County grand jury.

Consideration
Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) told newsmen he would ask the committee to consider whether Hutcheson's attitude was in contempt of congress.

The Lake County grand jury did not return any indictments, but another one in Indianapolis has charged Hutcheson and others with making an illegal profit of $78,000 on a $20,000 investment in lands sold to Indiana for highway rights of way.

The embezzlement accusation against the elder Hutcheson stemmed from the 1930 purchase of 50 shares of stock in the Adams Packing Co., an Auburndale, Fla. company now liquidated.

Kennedy and Harold Ranstad, a committee investigator, placed in evidence a statement that the stock was split profitably on two occasions and that the elder Hutcheson had received $5,300 in cash and an orange grove in Lakeland, Fla., worth at least $160,000 for his holdings.

A new company known as Adams Packing Co., Inc., was formed later, the statement said, and the Carpenters Union was voted 20 shares of stock in it plus $7,000 in cash. The statement alleged that the elder Hutcheson had transferred some of the new stock to himself and that it now has a book value of $32,000.

MOVING A MATTRESS into the barracks that will be his home during his two-week stay at Camp Lejeune, N. C., Pfc. Donald D. Zimmerman, Holcomb Road, Shavertown, Pa., prepares to find a rack. McElroy In Favor Of New Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense McElroy urged the Senate to approve President Eisenhower's defense reorganization plan and save "hundreds of millions of dollars."

Testifying yesterday before the Senate Armed Service Committee, McElroy said the largest savings probably would result from centralization of all military research and development and some reductions in personnel.

Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.), conceding that the question was difficult, asked the defense chief whether the savings might run as high as three or five billion dollars a year. The current defense budget is over the 40-billion mark.

McElroy replied that he didn't think the savings would be that high.

Russell, committee chairman, suggested that abolition of the present posts of secretary of the Army, Navy and Air Force might be an easy way to streamline and coordinate the huge Defense Department.

It was an attractive idea, McElroy said, but after discussion it was agreed the separate services are so large that it would be difficult to get good men to head them if they were denied the present titles.

The House passed a reorganization bill last week but not in the shape Eisenhower wants.

McElroy has criticized particularly a House provision restricting the power Eisenhower requested to transfer, abolish or consolidate functions established by law.

Rathmann Wins Monza Race In Record Time

Sets Blazing 166.788 MPH Pace In Fastest Time Ever

By Eugene Levin

MONZA, Italy (AP)—Jim Rathmann, of Miami, Fla., Sunday beat the greatest 500-mile drivers of Europe and America in the fastest auto race ever run.

His blazing 166.788 m.p.h. in a Zink Leader Card Special was six miles an hour faster than Jimmy Bryan's time winning last year and 31 m.p.h. faster than the Indianapolis record. Bryan, from Phoenix, Ariz., won this year's Indianapolis 500.

Rathmann even beat the old 162 m.p.h. world record which German Hermann Lang set in a Mercedes 20 years ago on a track near Berlin that had a six-mile straightaway. The Monza speed track is a 2.6-mile steep-banked oval.

The terrific pace and the bumpy track knocked out all but six of 19 starting cars.

The Indianapolis racers from America still dominated at Monza over the challenge of special built European racers and Europe's great open road drivers.

In final placings, Bryan was second in 3 hours, 1 minute, 9.6 seconds.

Rathmann had a total time for three heats of 2 hours, 59 minutes, 37.3 seconds. The Florida driver's time on the last heat was 59:37.9. Bryan's time was 1:00:04.9.

Rathmann averaged 167.376 m.p.h. on the first heat, 165.262 on the second and 167.376 on the third.

Last year Bryan won with an average of 160.168. The Indianapolis record is 135.601 m.p.h. set by Sam Hanks of California in 1957.

This was a long awaited showdown between the top drivers from Europe and South America against the American speedsters. The Europeans skipped the Monza race a year ago, calling it too dangerous.

The world champion, Juan-Manuel Fangio of Argentina, withdrew after the second lap when a clogged fuel line started his motor sputtering and missing.

Third place went to the Ferrari driven first by Luigi Musso, then by Mike Hawthorn, and then by Phil Hill.

Set To Form Court Loop

STROUDSBURG Borough playground director Samuel O. Wells III announced last night that a summer basketball league will be formed tomorrow at the playground, starting at 10 a.m.

Wells has issued a call for all junior and senior high school boys who would like to play basketball during the summer months to report at the playground at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

The program will be under the supervision of Robert Wert, newly named supervisor of boys activities at the Stroudsburg Borough Playground.

Rodgers Grabs NCAA Title

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP)—Phil Rodgers, a cool young man on a hot day, demonstrated that he's America's top college golfer Sunday when he won the 61st National Collegiate Championship by crushing Rohn Konek of Purdue 8 and 7 in the 36 hole final.

Rodgers, a 20-year-old sophomore from La Jolla, Calif., gave the University of Houston its second straight sweep of the NCAA team and individual titles and the fourth such double in 28 years. He succeeds Rex Baxter Jr.

Aaron Jets Braves Home

spree by Henry Aaron, including his second grand-slam home run of the season, sparked the Milwaukee Braves to a 10-6 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Sunday. Del Crandall also hit a homer as the World Champions evened the four-game series before a County Stadium crowd of 33,857.

Aaron's jackpot blow came in the sixth inning and proved to be the margin of victory when Bob Rush weakened down the stretch.

Rush was rocked for four home runs, two by Charlie Neal and one each by Dick Gray and Carl Furillo, and finally was rescued by Gene Conley in the ninth.

The Braves knocked out rookie Stan Williams in the third, saddling him with his second defeat and gave equally rough treatment to reliever Don Drysdale, who had beaten them Thursday night.

Althea Gibson, And Cooper Still Wimbledon Choices

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—

The real business of deciding tennis champions starts at Wimbledon Monday with seeds weeded and few reputations left untarnished.

Althea Gibson of New York still is favorite to retain the women's title.

Ashley Cooper of Australia gets something less than the nod in the men's division where he started as pretournament favorite.

While Miss Gibson has reached the quarter-finals without dropping a set, the darkly handsome Australian has made heavy going of his passage to the last 16.

Cooper dropped sets to both Austria's Franz Seiko and Sweden's Joergen Ulrich.

He still is not recovered from a troublesome thigh injury and looks ripe to be picked off by some bright youngster.

Nothing has happened yet in this week-long tournament hit by slumping attendance, heavy rain on five days and the collapse of four women seeds to compare with the beating handed English discovery Christine Truman by little Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., Saturday.

Nobody has yet suggested Miss Truman did not rate her second seeding but the Californian's 10-8, 6-3 triumph indicated she, too, should have been in the top flight.

Other uprooted seeds are the American Wightman Cup trio of Mrs. Dorothy Knodel (No. 3) Janet Hops (No. 7) and Karol Fageros (No. 8).

Fifth-seeded Luis Ayala of Chile is the only seed who has fallen in the men's division where four leading Australian players still are among those present.

Pennington's 2-Out Single Gives Twin City 1-0 Win

EASTON — Dick Pennington's two-out single which scored Harold Freeman proved enough to give league-leading Twin City TV a 1-0 verdict over Allentown Liederkrantz in an East Penn Softball League game Saturday night.

Pennington's clutch hit shared honors with the Viedomen's ace hurler Stan Thorz who tossed a one-hitter at the Leds.

It was the sixth victory in seven starts for the TVers and boosted its league lead to two full games.

Thorz, who fanned nine and walked only one, had a no-hitter going for six and a third inning before Allentown broke the hitless ice. Bob Zimmerman was Thorz' foe and was touched for four hits.

Run In 4th

Twin City's run in the fourth inning came when Freeman tripled. The TV flycatcher just missed making a home run when a pulled leg muscle forced him to slow down on the base paths. Pennington's hit followed for the marker.

The fielding gem of the game was pulled by Twin City's second baseman Marsh who went into the hole between first and second to rob an Allentownian of a hit in the seventh frame.

The linescore:

Allentown 000 000 0-0
Twin City 000 100 x-1

and eight-seeded Barry MacKay all have reached the last 16 in the men's singles.

Mrs. Margaret du Pont, 1947 Wimbledon champion also has made it to the last 16 and next plays Fay Mullero of Australia.

Worthington Checks Reds On Four Hits

CINCINNATI (AP)—Tall Al Worthington's last four-hit performance plus a helping hand in the ninth inning from Johnny Antonelli helped San Francisco's Giants shut out Cincinnati's Redlegs 2-0 Sunday and cling to the National League's third place.

Worthington's only trouble spot came in the fifth inning when the Reds collected two hits — singles by Ed Bailey and Roy McMillan — with two outs. But Don Newcombe flied out to end the threat.

Worthington also got in on a seventh inning uprising, leading off with a single, getting to second on a sacrifice and hustling home on Willie Mays' double. Willie's first run batted in since June 7. Mays had doubled in the fifth inning for his first extra base hit in 76 official trips since June 6.

YOUR FUTURE IS GREAT IN A GROWING AMERICA

THERE'S A NEW WAVE OF OPPORTUNITY COMING ... AND SMART PEOPLE ARE GETTING READY FOR IT!

7 BIG REASONS FOR CONFIDENCE IN AMERICA'S FUTURE

1. MORE PEOPLE . . . Four million babies yearly. U.S. population has doubled in last 50 years! And our prosperity curve has always followed our population curve.

2. MORE JOBS . . . Though employment in some areas has fallen off, there are 15 million more jobs than in 1939—and there will be 22 million more in 1975 than today.

3. MORE INCOME . . . Family income after taxes is at an all-time high of $5300—is expected to pass $7000 by 1975.

4. MORE PRODUCTION . . . U.S. production doubles

every 20 years. We will require millions more people to make, sell and distribute our products.

5. MORE SAVINGS . . . Individual savings are at highest level ever—$340 billion—a record amount available for spending.

6. MORE RESEARCH . . . $10 billion spent each year will pay off in more jobs, better living, whole new industries.

7. MORE NEEDS . . . In the next few years we will need more than $500 billion worth of schools, highways, homes, durable equipment. Meeting these needs will create new opportunities for everyone.

ADD THEM UP and you have the makings of another big upswing. Wise planners, builders and buyers will act now to get ready for it.

Academy Winner At Grand

PERHAPS the most unique aggregation of film stars ever to appear in a motion picture are featured in Michael Todd's spectacular Academy Award winning show, "Around The World In 80 Days," which opens for a limited engagement at the Grand Theatre in East Stroudsburg.

The technicolor comedy adventure is released through United Artists.

"Around The World," winner of five Academy Awards, including Best Picture of the Year, has been accoladed with over 75 international awards, making it the world's most honored show.

Newsweek Magazine called it "the most fantastic entertainment event in the history of the motion picture industry." The New York Times said that Todd "has outdone the motion pictures." Equally praiseworthy plaudits have come from newspapers, magazines and audiences in countries all around the world.

The colorful and exciting comedy stars David Niven, Cantinflas (the great Mexican comic in his American film debut), Robert Newton and Shirley Maclaine, as well as 44 of the world's best known stars.

Partial List

A partial list of these famed players include Charles Boyer, Joe E. Brown, Martine Carol, Charles Coburn, the late Ronald Colman, Noel Coward, Marlene Dietrich, Fernandel, Hermione Gingold, Jose Greco, Buster Keaton, Beatrice Lilla, Peter Lorre, Edmund Lowe, Victor McLaglen, George Raft, Frank Sinatra and Red Skelton.

"Around the World In 80 Days," based on the world-famous Jules Verne novel, is an adventure comedy which depicts an exciting and suspenseful trip around the globe in the year 1872 by one Phileas Fogg (played by David Niven) who is racing against time to win a bet of 20,000 pounds.

Accompanied by his jack-of-all-trades valet (Cantinflas), trailed by an eager but bumbling detective (Robert Newton), Phileas Fogg runs headlong into a series of spectacular obstacles.

Utilizing his fabulous sense of showmanship, Michael Todd gave his cameras full head to shoot such spectacular scenes as a frantic balloon flight over the Alps, two exciting bull fights, a Hindu suttee ceremony, a flaming riot of an election parade, a full-fledged bloodthirsty Indian raid, a runaway train ride, the destruction of an ocean-going side-wheeler and many others.

The show, which is Technicolor, includes a 10-minute intermission. Performances are scheduled at 2:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. daily.

TEST THE RIGIDITY
Does away forever with that "shower curtain" look. Test the rigidity, the firmness, the compact feel of the "Easterner."

Never before have you been able to get a folding door of such high quality at so low a price. Made of flexible steel panels permanently laminated between 2 layers of high quality plastic. No seams anywhere to mar its beautiful simulated leather finish in Rustet, Beige, Doeskin Grey. "Easterner" folding doors will not only add striking new beauty to your home, but will give you more actual "living" space. By eliminating door swing they make every inch of floor and wall space useable for more furniture, better decoration.
